

Current WLT Board Members Seeking Re-election

Martha Creedon-- Martha moved to Waltham in 1982. A retired academic systems librarian, she has served on the board at Waltham Fields Community Farm, volunteered at the Farm's outreach market, is a founder and current volunteer at the Watch City Bike Lab, is on the steering committee of the Waltham Farmers' Market, and serves as a Trustee at the Waltham Public Library. Martha enjoys cooking, gardening, fruit and vegetable preservation, and cycling for transportation, fitness, and fun.

Brian McCormick-- Brian grew up in Connecticut and first moved to Waltham in 1991 to attend Bentley University; Waltham has been his primary residence since that time. In addition to a Bachelor's Degree from Bentley, Brian has an MBA with a concentration in Finance from Boston University. Brian has worked in banking for the past two decades and is currently at Middlesex Savings Bank in Natick, MA in a credit analysis role. Brian began volunteering for the Waltham Land Trust in 2011.

Diana Young-- Diana moved to Waltham in 1996 and became a WLT Board member in 2002. She has led walks and other WLT program activities for close to two decades. Diana got to know Waltham when she was a student lawyer at the Boston College Legal Assistance Bureau. She is a retired tax lawyer, the former Chair of the Community Preservation Committee and an avid gardener.
